

SOPHIA GASPARIAN

Cut The Bulls 2003

acrylic and collage on wood
44 x 20 inches

"The work's political irony is enhanced by good technique (the collaged elements enrich the painting) and a compelling image. There is a further irony in the placement of the debased figure inside a tidy and traditional gold frame."

- Lynn Zelevansky, curator
and head of Modern and
Contemporary Art at LACMA

SOPHIA GASPARIAN
Cut The Bulls 2003
acrylic and collage on wood
44 x 20 inches

"The work's political irony is enhanced by good technique (the collaged elements enrich the painting) and a compelling image. There is a further irony in the placement of the debased figure inside a tidy and traditional gold frame."

— Lynn Zelevansky, curator
and head of Modern and Contemporary Art at LACMA